

FIERCE MOUNTAIN GALE RAGES FOR HOURS; GREAT DAMAGE IS DONE IN THE CITY AND COUNTY

Houses Unroofed, Trees Unrooted and Wires are Blown Down.

CONNELLVILLE BEARS BRUNT

Driving Rain Adds to Terror of a Wild Night; Street Car Traffic is Interrupted; Telephones Are Out; Small Fires Start During Gale.

What is regarded as the worst wind and rain storm in years struck Connellville and the entire region last night and did damage estimated at thousands of dollars. The terrible wind had the strength of a hurricane and when daylight came this morning every street was strewn with debris. Roofs were torn off, fences blown down, electric light wires broken, poles bent over or snapped in two, fences and billboards dislodged, and general havoc wrought.

To add to the excitement of the night, the West Penna. electric light system was early disrupted and some sections of the city were without street and house lights most of the night. Trolley service was also held up and many persons were compelled to remain in the cars for several hours.

It was a night of terror for many persons. The wind rocked the most substantial houses and in the early morning when the clouds seemed to become more severe, every minute there were darts of lightning and some of the terror of the night, two alarms of fire were turned in. One of these was at a coal shed on South Arch street, where the wind had forced a draft blaze into a mass of flames when the flames arrived, in rounding the curve at Arch and Apple street, the wagon skidded and struck a telephone pole. The wagon was then turned over, and the driver, John Nix and Charles Metzger, who were on the seat had a narrow escape from injury.

About 11 o'clock, the automobile truck was called out. East Park avenue and Third avenue, but there was no fire, much to the relief of the residents of that section.

The storm began to clear away about midnight. At 1 o'clock the front roof on the residence of J. T. Norton, "Windmiller," just east of the city, was blown off. The tin and boards were torn loose and the updraft exposed to the driving rain. A pillar on the porch in front of the building was also torn loose. Besides the roof to replace the roof, the damage to the interior from water will cost much to repair.

S. S. Snider's three-story apartment house on East Fairview avenue and Home avenue was badly damaged. A porch on the third floor was torn off and the building carried about 20 feet away, landing upon Fairview avenue. The mass of woodwork struck a pole, snapping it off, and the weight of the burden upon the pole caused another pole some distance above to break off near its base.

Some distance below, the frame of a window in the front of the Keck residence was blown in, and the window was shattered. The upper property on the northeast corner of Main and Prospect streets was considerably damaged. A porch roof in the rear was torn loose and bent over on the roof of the house. As it turned over, it struck the chimney and is now hanging upon the bricks.

The buildings upon the Crossland farm were stripped of their roofs and an order was sent in to a local lumber yard this morning for 20,000 shingles to replace the damage.

The school buildings suffered to some extent. At the Greenwood building, a rear door was torn off and a window in the basement demolished. At the Seventh street building a tree was uprooted and it fell over G. L. Armstrong's house. At the South Connellville high school building three plate glass windows were blown in.

The arms supporting the West Penna. street lights were torn loose or bent in all parts of the city. The swinging of the lights in some instances forced the bolts which fastened them to the poles. Some of the arms were almost on the ground this morning. The lamps were smashed in many places.

Three of the stone projections on the tower of the new First Presbyterian Church were blown off. Two of them fell inside of the tower and the third plumed down, landing on Pittsburgh street. The latter came from the southern side of the tower and by a narrow margin escaped crashing into the fire roof. As it was it landed on the pavement and was broken. The other stones apparently damaged the roof inside of the tower for places can be seen where the water is leaking through. These stones look small from the street, but they weigh several hundred pounds.

A trapdoor leading to the roof of the passenger was picked up by the wind and carried across the street. The Columbia Theatre's signboard was torn down and badly damaged. Billboards and fences everywhere are torn down and shattered. The big billboard of the Robbins service at the corner of Second & Main streets was torn loose and carried out into the street. Another at the corner of Water street and Fairview avenue suffered a similar fate. The "No Snow" sign on the Young bridge was wrenched loose and a sign on the front of the City Hall was blown to the street.

State roofs and chimneys were badly damaged. It was a perilous feat to traverse some of the streets late last night, with fallen wires on the ground, the street lights out in some sections and pieces of slate and bricks falling in showers. Shingles torn from the roofs of the older houses left only slight protection for the boards beneath. Some houses were damaged by water which came in after the roofs had been torn apart.

James McKeepert's house, blown down, fell onto the fence on South First street, was carried into the street; the big gate in the rear of the West Side Hotel was torn from its hinges. Porch furniture that happened to be left out was carried away and damaged.

Windows did not escape the general bombardment. An art glass window in the sun parlor of S. M. Goodman's residence on Fairview avenue was smashed and one of the large windows on the second floor of the Title & Trust Company Building suffered similarly. A window in the company store at Davidson was torn out.

During the height of the storm the "dinky" house at the Davidson coke works was blown down, the debris enveloping the two locomotives housed therein. They were not damaged, however.

The rolling mill, started on the Shilo Iron & Steel Company plant were blown over and the dilapidated plant was still more badly battered.

On Cedar avenue, part of a tree was suspended upon the telegraph and telephone wires this morning. On East Main street, a tree in front of the Rogers residence was practically demolished by the blast.

A tree which had stood for 50 years in front of the Myers property on North First street, West Side, was uprooted, as was another in the back yard.

The telephone and telegraph companies are now repairing the damage. There had been 500 cases of trouble reported in the Connellville district of the Bell. Lines were down to Edinburg this morning, but communications were quickly established. Local telephone service was not so badly hampered as might have been supposed.

Manager Thomas Simpson of the Bell Telephone Company, stated at noon today that one line had been opened to Pittsburgh, leaving three still out and two of the eight lines had been cleared to Edinburg. In Connellville the Bell had 90 subscribers without service.

The barn of E. L. Boyd, the dairyman, at the Narrows, is minus a roof today as a result of the storm. Roofs were also torn from the outbuildings of the Sherrick barn at Pennsville.

A chimney on the roof of J. A. McCrory's residence on East Main street was blown off.

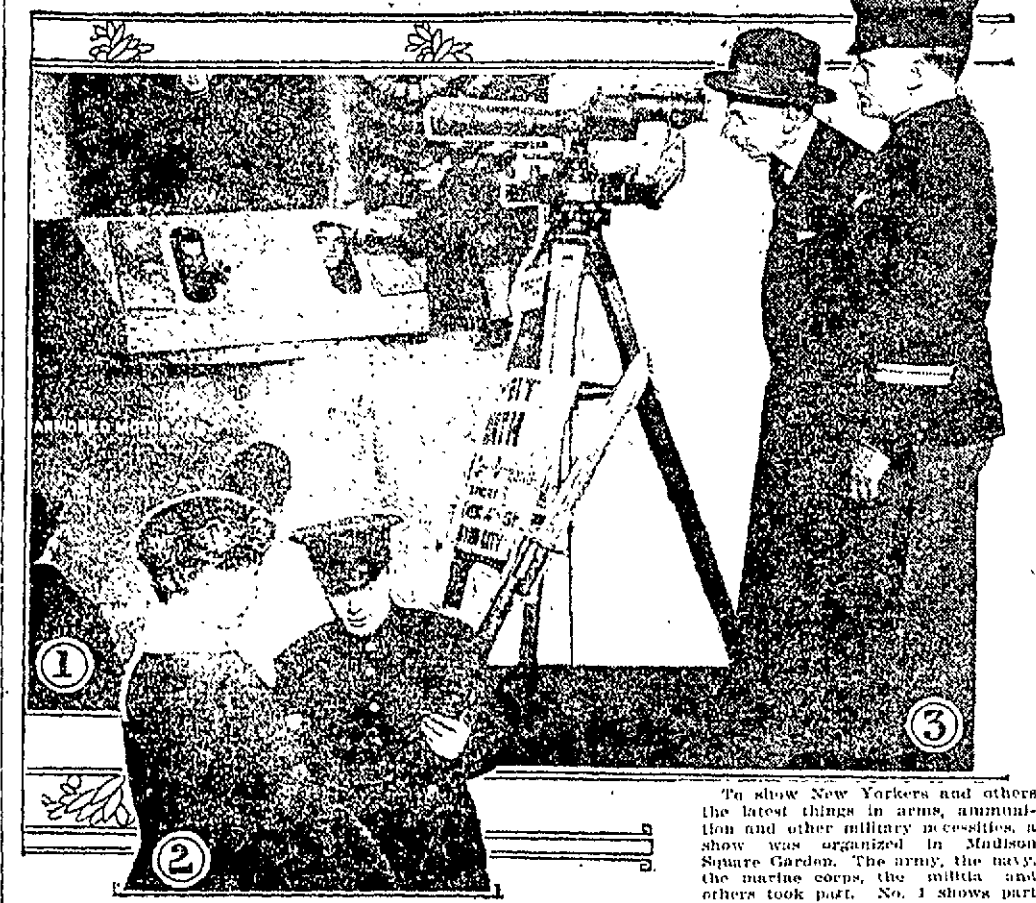

Rev. A. B. Seaman of South Connellville and his family fled to the storm cellar today, and a family gathering at Edinburg, took three hours to reach Woodlawn avenue. Arriving home, Rev. Seaman found that his residence had been torn apart. The south window had been blown in but not broken, though the storm was admitted in its full force. The water had soaked the roof and the roof had torn at a window out, depositing it upon a grape arbor below. It took three hours work in the rain to board up the windows and keep the water out. In the morning it was found that a portion of the side fence had been torn away, a grape vine blown off, boards 16 feet long having been tossed about as if they were leaves.

One large smoke stack and two smaller ones at the Young Ice Company's plant on the West Side were blown down.

The ravages of the wind throughout this section hit the industrial plants so hard that the Connellville Iron Works had to suspend work for 18 weeks this morning. The orders came in in quick succession, one of them from as far as Confluence.

The last Park addition bore the brunt of the gale. The wind swept down from the hills with great violence. At the home of P. W. Wright, a bedroom window was blown in. The sweep of the wind through the house storm in in the morning. It was the interior of the lower floor. Members of the family were well drenched before the broken window was finally boarded up.

Showing Up to Date War Material, Part of Preparedness Program.

To show New Yorkers and others the latest things in arms, ammunition and other military necessities, a show was organized in Madison Square Garden. The army, the navy, the marine corps, the militia and others took part. No. 1 shows part of an armored motorcar; No. 2, soldier explaining his rifle; No. 3, armchuck used on battleship.

ENGLAND PINS HER FAITH UPON ALLIES AT SERBIAN FRONT

Hope is Expressed That They Will Check the Bulgarian Drive.

FATE OF MONASTIR UNCERTAIN

Little Hope it Will Escape, But Serbs May Have a Corner of Their Country; Their Retreat Toward Albania Morning; Fighting in East.

By Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 18.—The fate of Monastir is not yet definitely known, but there is little hope in England that it will escape the Bulgarians. There is a possibility, however, that the invaders will not dare to make such an extension of their line with the French apparently established solidly on their flank.

Left in the dark as to the actual progress of the Anglo-French pursuit in the Near East, the public can only hope the Entente Allies will soon have such strong forces there that they will enable the harassed Serbians to make a successful stand and preserve a small portion of their country as the Bulgarians did along the Vardar. Some substance is given this hope by unofficial news that the Anglo-French force is now assuming formidable proportions.

As well by the fact that the Bulgarians are actually participating in the Balkan campaign.

The retreat of the Serbians toward the Albanian border is causing indignation in the outcome of its deliberations with the French committee, but the public is convinced closer unity will prevail hereafter in the operations of the Allied armies and fleets.

Little news comes from the eastern front in addition to the report that a German attack south of Riga has been repulsed and that Austro-German attempts to cross the Sava river in Galicia have been resumed.

BRIDGE STEPS CLOSED.

North Flight to Water Street Two Daily Worn for Use.

Owing to the bad condition of the street iron on the old steps leading from the bridge to Water street, they were ordered closed yesterday afternoon. The iron has been exposed to the weather so long that it has rusted through.

It is feared that some person walking on the steps might step into one of these holes or weak spots and get hurt. The new steps on the south side of the bridge are available.

MAY USE CURBS

Health Officer Says Crates of Fowls Can Be Kept Outside.

Dealers in chickens and other fowls who will have a big supply on hand for Thanksgiving are being notified by Health Officer George Hertz that permission will be given during next week to set out their crates of turkeys and chickens along the curbs. It is a state law that no fowls or poultry of any kind can be kept in crates along the sidewalks but on the holidays there is always a big supply on hand and the dealers cannot find space in their stores for both the customers and poultry.

The first day on which fowls may be set along the streets is Monday. Although Thursday is Thanksgiving, the dealers may leave the crates on the curbs until Saturday, as there is often a heavy buying of fowls for a few days after Thanksgiving. Dr. C. W. Pitts, president of the Board of Health, has given his approval to this order.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

First County Session is Opened at Ohioville.

All the speakers were on hand at the opening session of a series of Fayette County Farmers' Institutes held today in the Methodist Episcopal church at Ohioville. The program was carried out as arranged, and from all indications the institutes promise to be the largest and most instructive ever held in the county.

The afternoon Dr. H. W. Watts of Keokuk, spoke on "Fertilizing an Orchard." This was followed by a talk on "Fire-Blight of Fruit Trees," by C. R. Orton of State College, J. Stuart Groun of Jersey Shore, Pa., spoke on "Corn Breeding and Culture."

BOOST THE YOUGH.

Down River Towns to Renew Agitation for Shickwater.

West Newton, McKeesport and other towns along the lower Yough are again taking up the matter of establishing shickwater agitation in the river. The proposition to erect three locks and dams was recommended by the United States Army Board and approved by Congress and a meeting of citizens in the Youghiogheny Club at West Newton this evening at 8 o'clock.

Exhibits Tropical Snake.

L. Rimondio, a Pittsburgh street wholesale dealer, has on exhibition a tropical snake that arrived here in a shipment of bananas. The snake is not large, but it is thought that the bite is poisonous. The bananas were sent from Jamaica.

NEW STEEL COMPANY ASKS TOWN TO PROVIDE A SITE AND TAKE $65,000 STOCK

He grew up to be famous. Harriet Beecher Stowe, the author, was his daughter. After bringing in this incident, Rev. Burgess said, "Should this child have been given the benefit of the doubt, who can tell but that it may have grown up to become something? The deformities might have been cured. I believe that the benefit of the doubt should have been given the child."

SUES THE RAILROAD

Dawson Man Wants $15,000 Damages for Rough Stuff by Crew.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 18.—Claiming that he had been maliciously attacked on a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train near Bannock last October 1 by members of the crew, Harry Sheppard of Dawson, today filed an action in trespass for $15,000 damages.

He claims that last October 1 he entered the station at Jacobs Creek intending to go to his home in Dawson on the train leaving Jacobs Creek at 5:40 P. M. The ticket window was closed, he says, the agent being occupied outside the building. When the train arrived at Jacobs Creek he boarded it without a ticket.

Mr. Sheppard says in his statement that when the train auditor came through the train for tickets he paid him 30 cents, which was accepted, and the train auditor said he would see later about it being the right fare. After the train had passed Banning, it is charged, the auditor returned to him and demanded 10 cents as a penalty for not purchasing a ticket. Mr. Sheppard declares that he told the auditor he was unable to purchase a ticket and refused to pay the 10 cents penalty.

The brakeman was called, Mr. Sheppard says, and he stopped the train, took hold of the plaintiff and struck and beat him. Sheppard claims that the brakeman shoved him through the coach and off the train. In falling off the train, Sheppard says that he caught hold of iron rods on the rear of the coach, whereupon the brakeman kicked him on the hands and again struck him.

STREET STILL BLOCKED

Main Thumpers Work on Repairing South Pittsburgh Thoroughfare.

After making recent work on the stretch of South Pittsburgh street between Crawford avenue and Willis road, the storm of last night threatened to tie up the work longer than had been expected. Contractor J. J. Dick stated that if the sand, dirt and debris in the laying of brick would be resumed this afternoon. The stretch is more than two-thirds completed.

Although the slag for the base has not arrived, Contractor Dick expects it to be in time to go right ahead with work on the street between Brimstone Corner and Church place. The crushed stone base is now being applied.

South Side folks suffered during last night's storm. With trolley traffic interrupted, it was impossible for them to get home by way of automobiles. It was virtually impossible, even though many of the drivers had either the Baldwin avenue or the Arch street hills.

COUNTY HOME DAMAGED

Tubercular Hospital Sleeping Porch Collapses; Patients Escape.

Seven patients at the tubercular hospital, adjoining the county home, had a narrow escape from injury during the storm. A two-story sleeping porch was demolished by the wind about 2:30 o'clock, not long after the seven patients had been taken indoors.

The porch, which had just recently been built, was a two-story affair about 60 feet in length. About 2 o'clock the force of the wind was so great that the shivering began to break. The attendants then had the patients brought indoors. Hardly had they all left the porch, when the structure collapsed. The damage is estimated at about $600.

The hospital is in charge of Mrs. Mary Goblright, formerly of Connellville.

Farmer Dies in Storm.

BLAUSSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 18.—John Douglas, a farmer, was killed in the collapse of his barn during the storm last night. Four horses and a number of cows he was trying to save also were killed.

Five Given Hearings.

Five prisoners were given hearings by Alderman W. D. Colborn at police court this morning. Two were discharged, and two were sentenced to 48 hours. Another drunk was sentenced to 24 hours.

Enter the Hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Jones of Dunbar, 42 years old, and Mrs. Sarah Ritten of Greensburg, 35 years old, were admitted to the Cottage State Hospital for operations.

Case is Settled.

Charged with throwing a stone at Harry Miller, Clarence Yough of East Apple street was arraigned before Alderman Fred Munk yesterday. The case was settled.

Baby Pulge Six.

Mrs. Anna B. Schmitz has bought a seven passenger Pulge Six from the West Side Garage.

Promoters Outline Plans for a Thriving Business Here.

NEW COMBINATION IS FORMING

If Town Wants the Industry, Merger Will be Formed With Going Concern Which Has Eight Factories in Different Parts of the Country.

Connellsville can get a thriving industry, employing approximately 500 well paid men 300 days in the year, in return for a site of 10 or 50 acres of land and the subscription of approximately $65,000 in stock in the concern. This is the net result of a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Business & Professional Men's Association last night with William P. Lemley of Pittsburgh and his associates. Mr. Lemley is president of an investment house of Pittsburgh which is interested in launching a proposed million dollar corporation which seeks to locate here.

The meeting was largely attended, and considerable interest was manifested in the proposition presented by the visitors. Whether anything will come of it depends upon the results of investigations that will be made into the matter. The visitors will confer with the interests and back them. They have been requested to make a formal proposition for the Connellsville men to consider.

Highly stated, the proposition involves three angles. First, the site, which interests Connellsville, that of a sheet mill which is now located in Muncie, Ind., and is not operating, and last, but most important, a going concern making a finished product out of galvanized sheets which, according to the statements of the promoters, has paid 125% in dividends the past year, in addition to a 50% stock dividend. The town the concern has heretofore bought its sheets in the open market. Sometime ago it was suggested that a rolling mill be constructed, and arrangements were made for the purchase of the site. Mr. Lemley and his associates in, as they own a sheet mill. A merger was proposed, and has practically been consummated.

The people making the finished product planned the erection of a factory to turn out goods for the eastern states and the export trade. For this reason they desire to locate in the Pittsburgh district. The original proposition was to acquire sufficient ground to enable them to build a rolling mill later. The fact that they expect the rolling mill at once, and combine the two plans, proved so attractive that steps to this end were immediately taken.

According to the statements made last night, it would cost $150,000 to move the rolling mill from Muncie, Ind., and erect it in Connellsville. Of this sum the owners of the mill are willing to pay $25,000 and the concern, which will be merged with the town, will pay the balance of $125,000. The town will be asked to provide the site and $65,000. In return for the cash invested, stock will be given.

Some explanation of the new corporation, which will be capitalized for $1,000,000, will hold a 50% interest in each of the eight small plants of the finishing concern which are now operating. The smaller plants will have no holdings of stock in the parent organization. These eight plants consume an average of 13,000 tons of galvanized sheets a year, and the plant would turn out 50,000 tons annually. When inquiry was made as to what would become of the balance it was explained that during the past several years salesmen for the finishing concern have received orders for an average of 500 tons a week of galvanized sheet material, such as roofing, siding, etc. Therefore these orders have been turned over to the mills from which the company purchased its sheets.

That business, it was pointed out, would be kept in the company. The eight branch plants, it was stated, have an average of 19 salesmen each, and every salesman covers about 20 counties. The largest factory is in Birmingham, Ala. The others are located in the South, Middle West and Pacific Coast territory.

The present location of the rolling mill, it was explained, is unsatisfactory because of the freight rate east. The next factory the finishing company is to erect must be at a point where the freight rate to the Atlantic Coast and New England is advantageous. Huntington, W. Va., made an offer of a site, but the cash for the plant, but was turned down because of the high freight rate. The freight rate from Connellsville is satisfactory, it is said.

What comes of the proposition depends upon subsequent investigation. The rolling mill at Muncie has not been operated for 73 months. It was outlived by the present owners about four months ago. It is decided to be a thoroughly modern mill in every particular. The promoters declare that the rolling mill could be operated profitably at this place, regardless of its association with a finishing company. The finishing company, it is said, made a profit averaging $29 a ton on all its business last year, by having its own rolling mill. These profits could be materially increased.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Miss Rose Ryan daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ryan of the West Side and John H. Ryan a well known resident of Scottsdale, were married yesterday at high noon at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Ryan, 1111 North 10th St. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white tulle and a small veil. The groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Ryan. After the ceremony the bride and groom were taken to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. H. Ryan, where a reception was given. The bride and groom were accompanied by their bridesmaids and groomsmen. The reception was a very pleasant one and many guests were present.

HERE'S NEW VIGOR FOR OVERWORKED STOMACHS

A. A. Clarke the popular druggist has been in the drug business long enough to have his own opinion of the best way of selling medicines. He says the plan adopted by him is the best. It is to sell the medicine on a trial basis. He does not believe that a medicine ought to be sold unless it does the work it is intended to do. And he does not believe that a medicine ought to be sold unless it is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. This is the strongest proof that can be offered as to the merit of the medicine.

Quality —Not Quantity

It's not so much the quantity as the quality of food that counts. Digestibility and nutritive value are the prime considerations.

Grape-Nuts

with Cream

is a splendidly balanced food that affords rich nourishment and, being partially pre-digested in making, exacts but small tax on the digestive organs.

Grape-Nuts retain all the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including the mineral salts, phosphate of potash, etc., so necessary to proper nourishment, though notably lacking in white bread and many other foods.

A vast army of regular Grape-Nuts users can say from experience

SCOTSDALE AND TOWNSHIP TEAMS MEET SATURDAY

Mount Pleasant High has a Husky Bunch of Players.

GREENSBURG IS STILL AGITATED

New Public Clock Being Put Will be an Object of Interest to Those Who Hurry for Street Car or Train; Other Notes of the Mill Town.

Special to The Courier. SCOTSDALE, Nov. 19.—The Scottdale high school football team will be lined up against the Mount Pleasant township high school team on the Ellsworth Park field on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Scottdale team, which has a record of 10 wins and 1 loss, is expected to be one of the best in the county. The Mount Pleasant team, which has a record of 8 wins and 2 losses, is also expected to be a strong contender.

The agitation, first started in Greensburg for the teams of the two towns to come together, still stirs the pool of local interest, but Scottdale cannot see any reason to provide anything for the county seaters and is denied a look-in on the state receipts. Finally the Scottdale team, says Manager J. C. Warner, is not going for any participation in the professional class, and the way Greensburg is putting up the matter that is what such a game would be if taken on Greensburg's terms. The offer of Scottdale enthusiasts, that they will put up the $300 demanded by Greensburg has the professional class about it, too, although every one appreciates the loyalty of the Scottdale fans. Scottdale's team is a strictly high school one in every respect, and no one appears on the field who does not have his studies as well as his right leg up to the mark.

BEFORE THE SQUIRE. During an altercation "Daisy" Gilmont hit Joe Smith a blow that made Joe go around with a bandage around his face. When a hearing was given before Justice S. R. Rutledge the case was settled by Gilmont paying the costs.

IS CALLED HOME. Miss Lillian Gilmont, teacher of domestic science in the high school, has been called to her home in Pittsburgh by the death of an uncle.

A SILENT CRY. Charles S. Wiley, a Pittsburgh street jeweler, is doing something that will result in much appreciation on the part of the public, particularly those that hurry down street in the morning for the street car or train. He has had a concrete foundation built, with a conduit carry wires from the store and surmounted on top with a large clock which will be seen from up or down street. There are a great many people who direct their eyes on any clock they may see while going to or from work. Mr. Wiley is the first person to put out a public clock of this kind here.

VANDALISM OUT. When Dr. E. F. Wiedell moved his office into the new building on Pittsburgh street he put up a handsome glass plate beside his door. Sometime during Wednesday night, it is said, the sign was smashed up. Another one will be required. The sign appeared as if a club had been used on it.

CLASS BANQUET. The third annual banquet of Miss Anna Stiles' class of the First Presbyterian Sunday school was a very successful and enjoyable affair. In the dining room of the church. The class and guests were seated at a long table decorated with a beautiful centerpiece of red and white chrysanthemums in a Japanese basket. A delightful menu was served. Mrs. J. St. George presided, and the audience with a number of impersonations, that were heartily applauded and pleased everyone. Among those present were: Mesdames W. E. Stewart, Kate (Gilmont), Howard (Gilmont), W. Clark, Roy White, Frank Melinger, Henry McHenry, N. E. Staley, Paul Hater, Joseph McCullough, Joseph M. Gilmont, Homer Clark, Eugene Staley, Robert (Hockenbury), A. C. Evans, and Misses Estelle Greenwald, Bess Holt, Sara Butler, Maude and Winifred Loucks, Mary and Margaret Shillbourn, Lulu Gilmont, Ruth and Annie (Crane), Margaret McWhinney, Nettie McCarty and Anna Stiles, the teacher.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE. A nicely arranged surprise party was held in honor of Teresa Loucks on her twelfth birthday anniversary.

CAMPBELL IN TOWN. Assistant to President Willard Visits Connelville. George H. Campbell, assistant to President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, was a visitor in Connelville yesterday. He dropped in at The Courier office for a few minutes.

Business in the Baltimore & Ohio is declared by Mr. Campbell to be entirely satisfactory. The system is handling all the tonnage it can move. It is in better shape, he said, than ever before to take care of shippers.

Bronchitis. When a severe cold settles on the lungs it is called bronchitis. There is danger of its leading to bronchopneumonia, and for this reason it is always best to go to bed and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed until well along towards recovery. Mrs. Charles E. Woodward, Scarsy Creek, N. Y., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured me of bronchitis last fall. When I began using it I was so hoarse at times that it was difficult for me to speak above a whisper. I resorted to the use of this valuable medicine and found it very soothing and healing. In a week's time I was well." Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

Resinol

heals skin diseases

If you have eczema, ringworm or other itching, burning, raw or pimply skin eruption, try Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and see how quickly the itching stops and the trouble disappears, even in severe, stubborn cases. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists.

WHAT $10 DID FOR THIS WOMAN

The Price She Paid for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Which Brought Good Health.

Danville, Va.—"I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any bearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying your remedies. I take pleasure in telling my friends and neighbors about them."—Mrs. MATTIE HALEY, 501 Colquhoun Street, Danville, Va.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

on Tuesday evening, when a number of little guests assembled and surprised her. The evening was spent in playing games and a dainty lunch was one of the attractions. Among those present were Meredith Stauffer, Virginia Clinebarger, Louise Sillev, Anna Belle Holfield, Margaret Kelly, Violet Pemberton, Mabel and Eva Rutherford, Angelina Meadows, and Pauline and Mildred Kestler.

JUST TRY RHEUMA NO CURE, NO PAY

That is the Basis on Which Druggists Offer "Rheuma" for Rheumatism.

Anybody is afraid to use Rheuma to get rid of terrible rheumatism, sciatica, or gout, for it is sold by A. A. Clarke and other druggists at only 50 cents.

It is wonderful how speedily this simple remedy takes hold and how soon muscles limber up and swollen joints come down to normal. It is the best remedy you can find to drive rheumatic poison from the system and bring back health to misery-racked bodies.

"I had rheumatism for a long while, and was not cured until I used Rheuma. My advice to those suffering from rheumatism is to use this great remedy, as I believe it will effect a cure in any case."—C. B. Langhans, W. Va.

PENNSYLVANIA TRAFFIC

Shows Continued Improvement for First Two Weeks of November.

Pennsylvania railroad freight traffic continues to show notable improvement. For the first two weeks of November the number of loaded freight cars passing eight junction points in the east of Pittsburgh amounted to 326,227, an increase of 87,350, or 26.1% over the same period of last year.

The daily average movement passing the eight points was 28,240 cars, compared with 21,924 last year, an increase of 6,322 cars. Loaded cars passing Lewistown Junction were made up as follows: Bituminous coal, eastward, 22,163 tons, an increase of 21,712 tons, or 28.5%; eastward, 16,487 tons, a gain of 37,112 tons. Westward, miscellaneous freight totaled 10,635 tons, an increase of 19,712 tons. The total was 52,936 tons, a rise of 26.9%.

These Beautiful 9x12 Genuine Tapeslry Brussels Rugs Special $12.75

What the Illustration Cannot Show

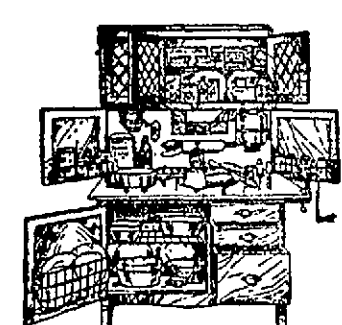

Texture is of the Finest Tapestry Brussels

The above picture was taken from a position looking down on the rug and will give you a slight idea of how the rug will look when lying down on the floor of your living room or dining room; but it cannot portray the quality of the texture, the manner in which the strands are woven, or the coloring as they blend into each other. ## DO THIS FIRST—YOU!

You know, and every physician knows, that when any sickness has passed, whether it be throat trouble, organic disturbances, contagious diseases, or even a severe cold, a relapse is feared, because sickness robs the system of Nature's resistance and leaves it subject to lingering germs. Drugs never build up a worn-out body—only food can do that, and the first thing to take after any sickness is the concentrated, blood-making food in Scott's Emulsion, which feeds the tissues, benefits the blood and strengthens both lungs and throat. Physicians prescribe Scott's Emulsion after sickness. Nurses everywhere advocate it. Scott's is pure medicinal food, without alcohol or drugs.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-2

AT FULL CAPACITY.

Cambria and Pennsylvania Steel Being Offered Premiums. A high official of the Cambria and Pennsylvania steel companies stated recently that not only were both plants working at full capacity, but premiums were already being offered by many contractors for immediate deliveries. He said that the transformation of the iron and steel industry is the most remarkable he had ever witnessed, which was attested in the case of the Pennsylvania Steel Company which less than six months ago had a little over $4,000,000 of unfilled orders on its books, whereas today it has between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000 of unfilled orders on hand.

NO DOCK ROOM.

Take Vessels May Close Season Without Unloading Tonnage.

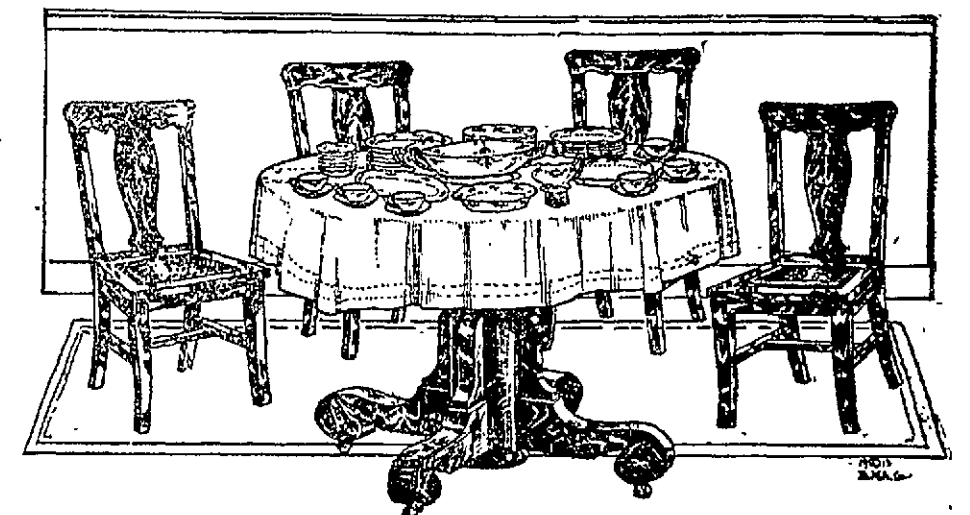

Because of the crowded condition of coal docks at Duluth and Superior, it is probable that many lake vessels will winter in that harbor with coal cargoes.

Heavy shippers, the United States Steel Corporation in particular, will want as soon as navigation opens next spring, it is believed, because of the strong condition of the steel and iron market, and consequently will keep their boats at that end of the route.

This Dining Room Combination

Including 50-piece Dinner Set, Exten. Table, 4 Leather Seat Chairs, $29.50

The Leather Seat Chairs

They are of a conventional design. There are dozens of designs similar to them; but here's the difference. They were upholstered with genuine leather or box seats, and we can truthfully say that this is the first time that genuine leather seat chairs were ever included in a combination offer of this sort anywhere near the price at which this complete outfit will sell for tomorrow.

The 50-Piece Dinner Set

The set is of plain patterns. There is nothing over-ornate about it, so that will make a strong appeal to people of refined taste. The dishes are from one of the best known potteries in the country, and the glazing is particularly good—it will not crack or chip. It is difficult to convey in type the real beauty and worth of this dinner set. It must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Solid Oak Extension Table

This table is exactly as pictured, made of the finest genuine oak and built on true Colonial lines. Has a large, solid pedestal with heavy massive turn legs. The design conveys immediately to the observer that this table is one of real worth. The top extends to six feet and will accommodate eight people if necessary. It is all finished perfectly in the Golden Oak.

$19.75 for This $35.00 Parlor Bed Davenport Finished in Golden Oak.

$11.75 For this $18 Solid Oak Exten. Table.

This is real table bargain. Made entirely of seasoned solid oak, polished in rich shade of Golden Oak. It has a massive pedestal base; good sized top and heavy, scroll feet.

We have a great variety of handsome tables for all purposes, which we would be pleased to show you.

AH! BACKACHE GONE! RUB LUMBAGO AWAY

Rub Pain From Back With Small Trial Bottle of Old "St. Jacob's Oil."

Ah! Pain is gone! Quickly!—Yes, almost instant relief from soreness, stiffness, lameness, and pain follows a gentle rubbing with "St. Jacob's Oil."

Put this soothing, penetrating oil right on your painful back, and lumbago, relief comes. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless, backache, lumbago and sciatica cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin.

Straiten up! Quit complaining! Stop those torturous "aches." In a moment you will forget that you ever had a weak back, because it won't hurt or be stiff or lame. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" from your druggist now and get this lasting relief.—Adv.

DEMOLISH SLOT MACHINES.

Westmoreland County Cleans Up All Gambling Devices.

A wholesale destruction of slot machines captured recently in raids at New Kensington, Monessen, Jeannette, Mount Pleasant, Leaside and other places in Westmoreland county has been ordered by the court.

Machines gathered in by the police were held as evidence against the men accused of running them and after the cases had been heard and in most cases fines of $25 each and costs imposed, the machines were ordered to be smashed, burned, or otherwise rendered incapable of ever being rebuilt.

The machines were of every character from punch boards to nickel in the slot devices.

Culm Banks Disappear. The culm banks in and about Langford are rapidly disappearing. About 300 cars of the culm are being removed daily, and it is estimated that in six months not a trace of the huge banks will be left.

THE PREPAREDNESS OF PROTECTIVE TARIFF

President Wilson is trying to make the issue of 1916 National Preparedness. This may be one of the issues, but it is not likely to be the issue of the Democratic party. It is more probable that the issue of the Democratic party will be the issue of the tariff. The tariff is a subject which has been discussed for many years, and it is a subject which is of great importance to the country. The tariff is a subject which is of great importance to the country. ## PATRONAGE AND REFORM.

"One of the few consistent things about The Courier is its fanatical support of whatever party has the disposition of the boxes and fishes," says the Johnstown Standard. Similar remarks have been made from time to time by this paper and its political ally, the Connellsville News, and they are invariably brought forth by the fact that some portion of the official advertising of the county has found its way into the columns of The Courier.

Our Democratic contemporaries must admit that public advertising in The Courier gives the county greater publicity than other of them can furnish, so that we must assume that the objection to the use of The Courier is not so much to its propriety as to its medium as to the fact that the publications are not always made in The Standard and The News.

The constant complaints of these two far-sighted organs about the county patronage indicates quite clearly the attitude of their desire to clean out the court house this fall. After all, it was not reform they sought, but patronage, the same patronage they loudly profess about when it is given to Republican papers.

OUR IDEAL FACTORIES.

A citizen writes that suggesting that "the public" might make the safe works go; also Elgar.

The Courier is willing to furnish a lot of publicity to accomplish such a desirable result, and will furnish it cheerfully, if our friends will indicate the particular character of publicity that will be best calculated to accomplish this purpose.

The Courier has already suggested that there might be a possibility of starting up Elgar mill by turning it in on some sort of war munitions for which there is apparently such a great demand. The European nations are not particularly in need of safe, but maybe the safe works might make something else which would be more suitable to their needs.

OUR ADVANCE AGENTS.

This busy advance agent of Connelville's prosperity have turned up a very attractive proposition for our citizens to consider. While the offer seems rather indefinite as yet, the industry appears well worth having and if it proves to be all that is represented there should be a determined effort to finance it. The offer is of the most gratifying things in connection with the negotiations of the fact that the desirability of Connelville as a manufacturing site is acknowledged. It is a railroad center, convenient for the assembling of raw materials and the shipping out of the finished product.

The prosperity promoters have started in the right direction. We trust they will keep straight ahead and continue going right onward.

MOUNTAIN STORMS.

The Fayette county mountain storm has its late back on the ridge and sweeps down upon the cities and towns at their base with gusty force and demolishes everything in its path.

The storm last night was a fair example of this undesirable weather condition. It did thousands of dollars worth of damage, but nothing very serious. A great many windows were blown in and much discomfort resulted therefrom in private families. Sleep was almost impossible to many people.

The mountain storm is remarkable for its color, which rumbles along the mountain tops like that of some prehistoric animal, and for the suddenness with which it can subside. It usually ends as this one did with a gentle rain.

California persists in running Senator Penrose for President, but the Senator declines the nomination. The purpose is big enough to run for President and if it is thought wise for Pennsylvania to have a candidate he will do just as well as anybody else, and perhaps just a little better than plenty of people who will not admit his abilities as a statesman.

Justice Hughes has thrown another ray of hope around the Supreme Bench.

The United States Steel Corporation is out of the export market, not because it has mutual objections to furnishing war materials, but because it can take care of, and it prefers to cater to the home trade.

Merchant coke operators who are speeking coke for Christmas have no intention of giving it away. Christmas coke always comes high.

Steel workers are in the air, but none of them have been pulled down yet.

Nova Scotia is speeding up its steel mill under pressure of the war demands.

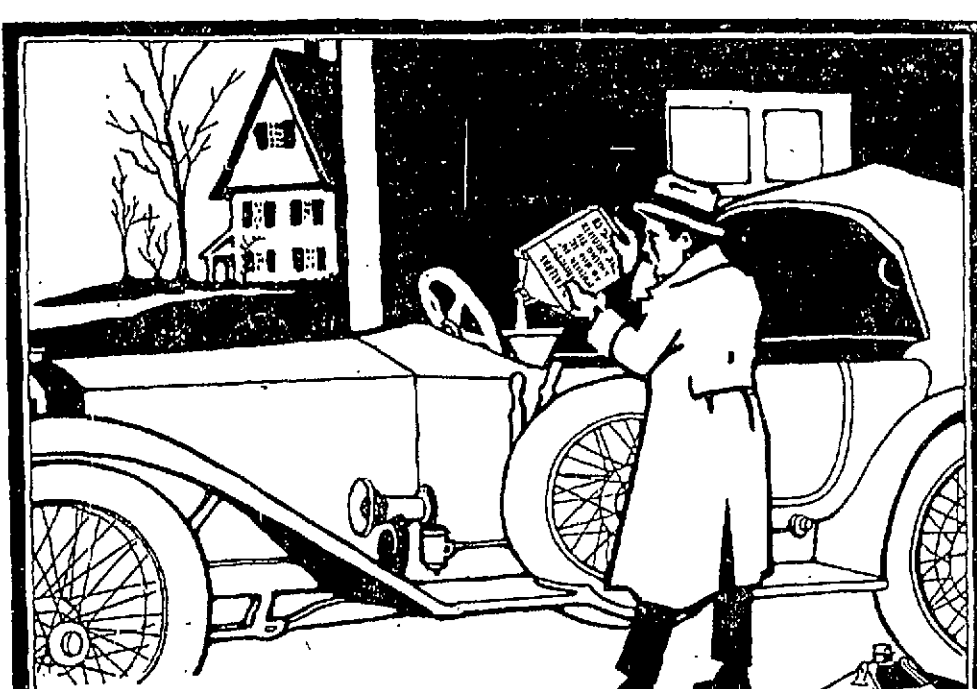

The latest review of the steel market by an authority says nearly all the mills are out of the market. It would seem to be the psychological moment to build a steel mill at Connelville.

Football fights are more interesting on the field than in the newspapers.

The Christmas holidays shut their rays of sunshine before.

The merchant coke operators of the Connelville region are putting into effect the policy of preparedness against that possible December boom with its skyrocketing coke prices.

It is highly proper for Dunbar township to have a model high school building because Dunbar township is a model township.

Appendicitis

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Elgar."

Appendicitis is something that usually happens just before some doctor buys a new automobile. Fifty years ago nobody heard of it. Now a man cannot be said to be up-to-date unless he has had appendicitis, while the doctor and the automobile have been companions.

Appendicitis is a peculiar pain in the right side of the abdomen, which is later transferred to the region of the check-book pocket. It is said by some to be a kind of disease. Others claim it to be a kind of doctor's game, and it is an opportunity. It comes from an inflammation of the vermiform appendix, a small intestine.

There are two ways of curing it. It can be cut out. In the latter case, the appendix is not really lost, but the surgeon's bill can, by economy, be reduced in instalments to a normal size.

A great many people have had operations made in their interiors by surgeons in school of appendicitis, and most of them have survived. It is not dangerous to have the appendix taken out, providing the surgeon removes all of his tools from the premises, and does not return.

Clean Milk

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., Ida D., Commissioner of Health.

Not many years ago everybody kept a cow. Now-a-days the city dweller's milk may have been hauled across two or three states before the milk bottle finally comes to rest upon the door step.

The majority of people seem to feel that if their milk is fresh it is likewise clean. Unfortunately nothing could be further from the truth. Dirty dairies and unclean handling by far too common. In the majority of smaller communities there is little or no supervision of dairy farms and dairies.

As a result milk is often the agent by which disease is transmitted. Typhoid fever, septic sore throat, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other communicable diseases can readily be spread along the milk man's route. This is particularly true where the unsanitary practice is followed of filling the empty bottles, which have been set out by customers, and delivering them at other houses, instead of taking them back to the dairy for proper cleaning and sterilization.

There are many instances on record where extensive typhoid epidemics have been traced to this practice.

Where city milk supplies are obtained from a wide spread territory covering several states, inspection of the individual dairy farm becomes almost an impossibility and pasteurization offers the only effective method of protection to insure milk free from disease germs. This does not necessarily mean clean milk.

Milk produced in states where the dairy farms are efficiently supervised by state inspectors is to be preferred. When the cleanliness of the raw milk is assured it is to be desired and is more easily digested than milk which has been pasteurized.

Every action in the handling of milk and the care of the dairy stock is important. If an absolutely clean supply is to be assured we must have healthy cattle properly cared for, cleanliness in milking and in the handling of the milk and the maintenance of the proper temperature from the time it is brought in by the milker until it is consumed.

Took a Neighbor's Advice. "Last winter my son Claude had a severe attack of grip. I took a neighbor's advice and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved him promptly," writes Mrs. T. H. Bell, Vandergrift, Pa. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

WEAK AND TIRED WOMEN

Tells How Vinol Made Her Strong.

Connellsville women who are weak, run-down and suffer from the consequent effects of such a condition, will be interested in Miss Odell's letter.

"I am a farmer's wife and was all run-down, weak, tired and suffered from indigestion, and sometimes it seemed as though I could not keep around and do any housework. I had taken many medicines without benefit. One day I saw Vinol advertised, and made up my mind to try it. I have taken four bottles and have gained seven pounds in weight, am much stronger, and feel many years younger than before." Sarah Odell, Lockport, N. Y.

The reason Vinol builds up weak, run-down women so quickly is because it contains a delicious combination of the three most successful tonics, peptonate of iron to enrich and revitalize the blood, the strengthening, body-building elements of fresh cod liver without oil, and beef peptonate.

We want to say to every weak, run-down, overworked woman. In Connellsville that we will return your money if Vinol fails to help you as it did Mrs. Odell. Laughrey Drug Co.—Adv.

ROCKWOOD.

ROCKWOOD, Nov. 18.—The Somerset County Medical Society held their regular quarterly and yearly meeting in the parlors of the Rockwood House on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The new officers elected for the ensuing year were: Dr. P. B. Shaffer, president; Dr. C. J. Hemminger, vice president; Dr. H. C. McKinley, secretary; Dr. W. S. Mountain, treasurer. Dr. Lehigh read a very interesting paper on "Ectopic Gestation." After the reading of the paper the members entered into a general discussion of the subject. The next quarterly meeting will be held at Somerset.

Mrs. John Nicholson is ill of a severe attack of rheumatism. Victory, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shumaker, suffered for several hours one evening this week on account of being in his nose. The family physician was at once summoned and succeeded in removing the bone.

Mrs. Lillian Vansickle is ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vansickle. During her sickness Miss Mae Bittner is teaching her classes in the Rockwood high school. Dr. H. B. Wiley and son, Robert, have returned home from Pittsburgh, where they spent several days this week on business.

J. B. Snyder of Rockwood is spending several days this week in Pittsburgh on business.

NO MORE NEED OF PIMPLES

It's the Easiest and Simplest Thing in the World to Get Rid of Them—and No Trouble Either.

Apply antiseptic Unocal night and morning and you can clear your complexion of pimples and unsightly blotches so quickly and so thoroughly, that you will wonder why you didn't use it before. You can always get Unocal at A. A. Clarke and it never costs more than 50 cents for a liberal supply, and not only that, if Unocal does not benefit you or you are dissatisfied with the results, go to the drug store where you bought it and tell them you are dissatisfied and want your money back and you get it without further discussion.

Unocal is the latest discovery for skin troubles, and the reason it is used so widely is that each person who uses it tells others about it and advises its use. Nothing else ever known possesses the same healing powers, and the way it clears up complexions in a remarkably short time tells the story of its unusual success.

The boy or girl, man or woman, who continues to go among friends with disfiguring and disgusting pimples, when they can be rid of them by using a little antiseptic Unocal, is to say the least, lacking in plain everyday common sense.—Adv.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE.

"NEAL OF THE NAVY."—Allan Leverage, William Courtright are featured today in the eighth chapter of the thrilling serial, "Neal of the Navy." This play increases in interest as it advances, and this time is becoming very popular. "The Idle Rich" is a two-act play, a language of intricate mechanism; tells the end story of a black eye, a wonderful rescue, an embarrassing meeting and a two-for-all Kilkenny scrap. Harry O'Connell, Eva Nelson and May Emery are in the cast. "A Pure Gold Partner," is a sensational Power's drama featuring Sidney Ayres and Doris Dawn. It is one of those fascinating western stories that are enjoyed by all. "The Stage Play" Lorne and Edward Shuman are the stars in the big U. drama "The Marks Woman." It is a thrilling story of the great northwest and relates an exciting chase after the villain whom the Marks woman shoots dead. Tomorrow, the Shubert Bros. present Edwin August and Tallin Tucker in the five-act drama of English society and military life, "Evelyn." The stage play which presented to the New York public was an immense success.

"EVIL IN THE NIGHT."—A World Film Corporation presents the five-part photoplay, at the Soisson Theatre tomorrow, based on the drama of the same name by J. Du Rocher Macpherson. The story relates how Lord Winbourne, finding his wife, Lady Una, in the embrace of a former lover, Captain Pollock, refuses to listen to explanations from his wife, from Pollock, or from Lushington, a friend of the family, who had been a former suitor for the Lady Una's hand. Thus he does not learn that Pollock, in his drunken state, had forced his attentions on Una, and that she had in no way been untrue to her husband. Pollock, bent on revenge after Winbourne has refused to listen to his apology, writes to the Lady Una, saying that her husband is ill and at the Red Lion Inn, and asks her to come at once. In great distress she goes. On entering the room in which she finds her husband, she finds herself again in the arms of her former suitor. Determined to throw herself from the window if Pollock does not let her go, she is about to carry out her threat when she hears her husband's voice. Winbourne having found that his wife has gone to the inn, has followed her. Breaking down the door, he finds Una in a faint. Pollock and Una are left to face disaster. The dishonorable captain immediately leaves for the war.

After the divorce Lushington, a true friend of both Lord and Lady Winbourne, tries to bring about a reconciliation through "Hink," their little son. Winbourne refuses to be reconciled, and tells the Lady Una that he will marry Mrs. Elvingham, a schemer, who has done her best to further the gap between them. It is only after Una has again refused Lushington, and he has gone to India to forget his sorrow, that evidence is produced to prove Una's guiltlessness. Lushington comes across Pollock, who is ill. The Captain signs a written confession exonerating Una. Returning with the document, Lushington finds happiness, although he realizes that he will never be able to fulfill the greatest longing of his heart to have the Lady Una as his wife.

AT THE GLOBE.

"A BATTLE OF WITS."—A late Eastern release featuring Allen Joyce and Tom Moore, supported by Loran Paul, Earl Fox and Stuart Holmes, is an interesting feature attraction today at The Globe. While at work in the woods, Tom meets Sue, and Tom, who seeks to win the girl's hand, becomes insanely jealous when he learns of Tom's friendship. The mountaineer influences Sue's father and the surveyor, and the old man forbids Tom to visit his premises. Some time later, Tom is given some mail addressed to Sue. Opening the letters he discovers it to be a messenger from a promoter, who has discovered that the railroad intends to lay its tracks through the girl's land. Meeting the promoter, Tom represents himself as Sue's husband and receives $10,000 for an option for the right-of-way. When Tom learns of this crookedness he hastens to the Elwood cabin. Tom having poisoned old Elwood's mind, the two attack the surveyor, making him a prisoner. Tom is placed in an Important to Dispose of Waste From the Stomach

With Regularity.

MR. THOS. DELOACH

People frequently attribute to failure of the digestive organs conditions that are primarily due to inactive bowels, and apply remedies that from their very nature are more apt to aggravate than to relieve the disorder.

When the bowels act regularly the stomach is in better shape to perform its allotted tasks and can usually be depended upon. To keep the bowels in condition there is no more effective remedy than the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell has prescribed this remedy in his practice for over a quarter of a century and it is today the standard household remedy in thousands of homes. Mr. Thos. DeLoach, with the Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Affairs, at Washington, wrote Dr. Caldwell recently that "Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is the best laxative I have any knowledge of and the cleaning up guaranteed by its use relieves every organ."

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be on hand in every home for use when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 461 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

THE HEART OF NIGHT WIND

A STORY OF THE GREAT NORTH WEST
By VINGIE E. ROE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

From time to time Sandry glanced upward at the increasing light. The sugar pine fell with a rending roar, and with Harris, who he saw for the first time, had been pulling with him, he ran to the north.

He saw as he ran that one of the men, working like a fury to foil the eagles, was Murphy, who had greeted his pompous "Dillingworth" with such grunting irony in the old days. He had a moment's vague wonder at this odd stripe of humanity that could hold such prejudice, fight with lion's men in savage enmity, to join their ranks later with happy irresponsibility at the call of gold, and was still willing to turn back to fight with him on death's brink, because he had returned their taunt of East and West.

One by one, in silence, in a tension that drew the skin tight on their faces, they saw the last remaining monarchs fall, the kindling saplings laid on earth, the trench, much narrower and shallower, creep upward to the ridge. Against time, against heat that scorched their bare arms and tortured their starting eyeballs, against a stifling atmosphere that drove them nearer and nearer to the earth for breath, they drew the last blade scot the last big pine crawling toward the north.

The ridge was clear in the increasing glow. "Now!" cried Sandry with the triumph of a general on a victorious field, "now for the ridge and over!"

But even as he dropped his saw and ran, calling his men, Collins' big voice came through the rolling smoke with the calm of finality.

"Ain't no 'over.' It's a ninety-foot drop on to hard rock beyond that 'idge."

Sandry stopped in his tracks, his head cleared as if with a whiff of salt air by that call.

The men had closed in with the instinct of their kind to be together in danger, as if so the danger were lessened.

But the Easterner was undaunted. "Then we'll take to the East Belt," he cried. "Even though it is a crown fire and coming fast, I think our trench will hold it."

With all confidence he turned to the south. Instinctively the men had drawn in behind him. The neck of the East Belt was a wavering wall of flame. He whirled and glanced back along the trail and the trench. Long streams of flame were licking across it. The half-looked-for had happened. The little bunch of fighters were hemmed in, ringed around by fire. Dead faced them on every side.

Then, as the owner sent a searching look to every quarter, he sprang forward.

"Here!" he cried, "here! Into it! Every man of you. In, I say!"

At the crest of the sheer ridge an old, abandoned tunnel gaped in the gloom, a dim haven of refuge. Its mouth was overhung by vines, its recesses mysterious in the blackness. Sandry sprang to its edge and turned back for the men to pass. They stood, a small, silent bunch, gazing in wordless contemplation at the red canopy. "Now how in hell did it get across the fall?" said Collins hoarsely. But one by one they stooped and entered the small black hole in the earth. It ran backward into the ridge, scarce the height of a tall man. Its floor uneven with the heaps of earth fallen from the roof since some long-forgotten prospector had carved it out.

Here for a moment they breathed more easily, standing close together, a sweating, panting, waiting mass of humanity. Sandry stood at the mouth, the last to enter. He looked out in hushed amazement at the unchained madness of the burning world. The great fire had reached its zenith. It came booming and roaring to the fall and the trench. Its sound was indescribable. The heat grew until the flesh on Sandry's arms and face rose in blisters. A sheet of flame shot sheer across the tunnel's mouth. Smoke rolled into it and bore and there a gasping breath ended in a moan. There was no air to breathe. Like trapped animals the men jumped here and there, feeling for an opening, a crevice to crawl into, away from the agony of heat and suffocation. And then they lost control of themselves. "My God!" cried Murphy shrilly, "I can't stand it! Let me out as I'll die an' get it over!"

He came groping to the entrance, the heat increasing heat. His face was a mask of agony. His mouth open, his fingers hooked like talons. But the mouth, that was the gate of hell, he met the Easterner, a straight figure against the light beyond.

"No," said Sandry sternly, "go back and lie down."

"What?" he shrieked, "what? You damned Johnny! You tenderfoot!"

And he lunged himself forward. A smothered black muzzle came forth and pushed its brass menace into his face.

"I'll shoot the first man that attempts to pass me," said Sandry hoarsely.

Raving and cursing, he backed away. More than one of the fourteen begged to be allowed to pass, and one of the lumberjacks from Sacramento muttered dolefully of calling his bluff. But the awful moments dragged by and Sandry stood at the entrance. The flames passed all measurement of light and heat. He lost sight of the figures at his feet. He felt himself going out in the darkness.

"Silez," he muttered, "little Silez."

When he came to himself again, men were crawling across him. He could breathe better and the light had lessened. He sat up, wincing at the moisture of his scorched skin over the muscles underneath, crawled out with the rest and one by one they rose to their feet. The great timber of the East Belt farther down stood erect and green. The effort had not been in vain. The holocaust was checked, the fire was safe.

Jack toward the north stretched a forest of tall, black spikes, picked out here and there by heavy spots of fire where fallen logs, dry and pitch-black, stood steadily. The green canopy was gone, every vine and bit of brush, every sapling and fern. Only a thin edge still crackled and snapped with streamers of flame along the trench. "Mr. Sandry," said Harris, the saw-filer, "if you're an Easterner I hope to God the breed fills up the country!"

He extended a hand which Sandry grasped.

"An' me," said Murphy, his grimy features distorted in an expression of mingled gratitude and contrition, "I take it all back—every damn word I ever said against you, an' it's a long life."

"Forget it," said Sandry. He was no longer Johnny Eastern. He had won his right to live and fight among them. "Is it over, Collins?" he asked, steadying his voice.

"Over? Look yonder. Feel the wind. It's chunkin' again. The fire's back-crawled toward the Silez basin three miles. I'll bet, while we've been savin' this end, we've only begun to fight."

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Shot in the Hills.

At camp they met a party, headed by the foreman, just starting out in search of them. Their absence had been discovered only when Daily, coming in from the north, where his work had been laid out, had asked for Sandry.

At sight of him the three women standing together at the foot of the cave evidence, each in her way, of those emotions which the suspicion of his fate had stirred.

On Ma's face was an unbounded pride that he had come through, a man of parts, abundantly able to care for himself among a harder crew. On Miss Ordway's there lay a vast relief, while Silez played with the collar of his blue shirt with trembling fingers and moistened her dry lips.

Sandry turned and looked up at the darkened east with a profound joy. He swept his eyes north to where the red heaven flared and staggered to his office.

Pennsylvania Mothers and Daughters.

Thingway, Pa.—I have had a satisfactory experience with Dr. Hove's Favorite Prescription.

Somebody ago I needed medicine for kidney trouble. I had heard of Dr. Hove's Favorite Prescription and used three bottles. It helped me wonderfully. It overcame the trouble and I grew better every day. I had so much confidence in this remedy that I recommended it to my daughters.

They used it with very marked benefit. We consider "Favorite Prescription" a reliable and valuable remedy.—Mrs. C. L. Woodman, N. Broad St.

An affection confined to women must have its cause in the womanly nature. There is no doubt that a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organs, is in general responsible for feminine nervousness and an unbalanced constitution.

For headache, backache, hot flashes, catarrhal condition, bearing-down sensation, mental depression, dizziness, fainting spells, lassitude and exhaustion women should never fail to take this tried and true woman's medicine. Prepared from nature's roots and herbs, it contains no alcohol nor narcotics nor any harmful ingredient. In either tablet or liquid form. Write Dr. Hove, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. today. Look on women's diseases sent free. Write also for free and confidential medical advice.

The modern improvement in pills—Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They help Nature, instead of fighting with her. Sick and nervous headache, biliousness, constiveness, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved, cured.

"Three hours, ma," he croaked in a voice of warning, "only three hours, sleep for all of us. If you give us longer I'll never forgive you."

It was true, as Collins said, that they had only begun to fight.

Through the hours, days, nights that followed the saving of the East Belt they took no note of time. Up along the blackened, devastated valley the soldiers moved their camp. Ma Daily shut the cook-stove and suborned a wagon to haul her big range up and deposit it alongside the camp stoves of Company II, where she dispensed coffee to her men and all others with impartial zeal. Miss Ordway, her skirts tucked up from the contamination of the burned earth which rose in hot, black puffs at every moving foot, was compelled to help if she would hold that explanation over Silez from which she hoped to realize her ambition. A bitter hatred sharpened her blue eyes upon the girl, and she ached to seize her and tear out of her blouse that packet of poisons. She was angered at herself that all her cleverness had failed to recover them before this.

So the hours passed with smoke and heat and a sun like a copper shield. Men came and went in relays, sleeping upon the ground for short shifts, rigidly apportioned and observed. The flood of flame, runner after an ardent wind, had piled its forces in leaping billows in among the northern hills. It seemed a thing of irresistible might, but the tollmen men hung to its flank with a dogged persistence, emboldened and encouraged by the success on the east ridge.

Sandry, limping painfully, and haggard as a ghost, stuck with the vanguard despite Ma's commands and Daily's warnings. At each fresh sight of his face the girl Silez was wrung with anguish. It seemed as if he could bear no more and yet the spirit in him drove him on.

Once she ventured a timid protest. "What is the timber worth if you die?" she asked plaintively, and Sandry, still somewhat of a boy, parried the yearning question.

"Who would care?" he laughed wryly, "would you, Little Squaw?"

The girl did not answer, but as she turned away the ready mist sprang to her eyes and she reached a contrite hand to her shoulder.

"Forgive me! I know you would!" It seemed to Silez as the horror swept north and the men were lost for hours in the dim fastnesses, that something was about to happen.

She felt a presence of disaster which Coonah shared, and they two stood apart for long spaces of time, silent listening, the muscles of each drawn taut. From time to time the great mongrel would squat upon his haunches, lift his heavy muzzle toward the dunsmoke heavens and bay with a long-drawn, silver note that was the very acme of melancholy.

And then came a dawn when no one came in for breakfast, when the sun, coming over the ridge, to the east, was not visible. Only a pale light turned the heavy canopy to shadowed pearl. The three women waited in that silence which ever attends the waiters for men who face danger. They were used to the silence, for there was no accord between them. Ma Daily had long ago shut this "bird of the earth" out of her good heart and Silez hated her with the fury of the woman whose mate is threatened.

At last a solitary Indian came down the valley, running, his mouth full of excitement and dolorous prediction. The whole of the Silez would go. It was the wrath of the Great Spirit turned loose upon a wicked world. It was the judgment. There was nothing like it. He fell into jargon and reverted to the ancient gods, and Silez checked him sternly.

about christmas

WE KNOW that wherever a Christmas message falls it awakens a responsive chord. The mere word Christmas brings visions. In our mind's eye we hear the children laughing, the tree agleam in all the splendor of its tinsel and flickering candles, we smell the pungent odor arising from the kitchen as we anticipate the rollicking fun at the Christmas feast, and the quiet evening around the blazing fire when every heart is full of "peace on earth, good will toward men."

But there's a commercial side to Christmas which you must give full attention to.

Boggs and Buhl for nearly a half century has been headquarters for out of town Christmas buyers. And this year we are very fully prepared to care for your every want in a most exacting manner and at the low prices which have won for us our enviable reputation.

Stomach Troubles.

Persons who have stomach trouble are apt to become discouraged. They will see by the following that their chances of recovery are excellent. A. K. Williams, Independence, Va., tells of a remarkable cure that was effected in that vicinity. One of his customers was so badly afflicted with stomach trouble that he was sent to a hospital, but received little benefit and came home to die. Mr. Williams suggested that he try Chamberlain's Tablets which he did, and today he is a well man and weighs 175 pounds. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

SHARP ADVANCE IS EXPECTED IN THE PIG IRON MARKET

Unexpected Increase in Output Not Expected to Check It.

FURNACES ARE MAKING RECORD

Production is Now at Rate of 37,500,000 Tons a Year, and Many Stocks are Not Operating; Sharp Upturn in Prices Is Not at an End.

Two remarkable things have occurred lately. There has been a very sharp advance in pig iron prices, compared with the slowness of previous advances in this market, and the current rate of pig iron production is reported at equal to 37,500,000 tons a year. Commenting on this state of affairs the American Metal Market says: "Conditions in the iron and steel trade are altogether exceptional. Everything is getting out of alignment and precedents are cast aside. In the circumstances everything is sensitive and it is desirable to study all the data available for the future may bring forth almost anything. It is important to know, if possible, whether our pig iron producing capacity is in excess of our own pig iron consuming capacity. These recent advances have shown that pig iron really can advance, but the advance that far might be largely sentimental, for as it is pig iron is behind steel in the general advance. On the other hand, the recent advance might be but the beginning of a general advance that would carry pig iron to very high prices. Steel prices are high and are going higher, but it would be important to know whether pig iron eventually will advance more or less than steel. The matter hinges upon the relation between pig iron producing and pig iron consuming capacity."

The impression was fairly general before the present improvement in the iron and steel industry began that there was a shortage in pig iron capacity, or at least that the capacity of the iron and steel industry as a whole was underplayed for the growth of the country, mention being made of the fact that we had expended this capacity repeatedly in 1913, endeavoring to explain thereby why the steel industry ran so well, nearly through the year, when business conditions generally were by no means exceptionally favorable.

"To those who like ourselves held to the belief that there were not enough blast furnaces for the consumptive capacity, or too much steel capacity for the blast furnace capacity, the course of affairs in the past few months has furnished a great surprise. Month by month during the first half of the year the steel mills became more active and steel prices advanced, while the pig iron market, at a very low level, below the real cost of production for most furnaces, merely backed and filled. It was not substantially higher July 1st than January 1st. Soon after July 1st a distinct shortage of crude steel developed, but there was no shortage of pig iron. A month or so ago the trade had some new thoughts. It developed clearly that the blast furnaces individually were making considerably more pig iron than ever before. One heard of furnaces making 600 tons a day when an output of 150 or 200 tons was formerly regarded as their best performance, and so along the line. The whole thing is well shaken out by the iron age monthly blast furnace report showing coke and anthracite capacity of 161,812 tons a day active on November 1st, and this with allowance for the charcoal stoves we compute is an annual rate of pig iron production of 37,500,000 tons. That production is in excess of the highest estimate we ever heard in responsible quarters of our capacity, even with relatively high cost furnaces in blast."

"As a matter of fact the ink pots and other detached stocks are not operating. The list has not been written to them. The iron age carries 416 coke and anthracite stocks on its list, but had only 278 stocks operating November 1st. In February, 1917, when the previous maximum productive rate was reached some 21,000,000 tons a year, about 300 coke and anthracite stocks were in operation, 21 more than at present, when there are idle of all sorts of furnaces, about 140. Indeed, on a count of stocks a trade list of two-thirds are in operation. While the count of stocks means little the comparison is rather startling."

"Coming now specifically to the second development mentioned in the outset, from October 21st to date there have been the following advances in our composite: Southern, $1.50; Chicago, $2.25; Valley Foundry, $1; Valley basic, 50 cents; Cleveland, $1; and Buffalo, 50 cents. These advances raised our composite from $15.13 to $16.01, or 58 cents in barely more than a fortnight. In the first six months of the year there had been no advance in the average, while in nearly four months following, until after the middle of October, there had been an advance of only $2.12."

"Now for the future. No scarcity of pig iron has developed, and there are idle furnaces that will come in, at a price of not more than a very few dollars per ton. The pig iron production that has averted a scarcity has been well in excess of what it was expected the furnaces could make, as a whole, and individual stocks have shown remarkable performance. It has been what is traditionally the best season of the year for blast furnace performance, and many stocks have surprised their owners by their performance. The performance may prove after all to have been exceptional. These same furnaces may not do as well in the next three months. The steel works will be forced to do their best in bad weather, but blast furnaces cannot be forced. What counts chiefly is the air that goes in them. The furnaces may call for much more iron; they certainly have not been large consumers of late. If matters work out thus, the recent sharp advances in pig iron are but the beginning; otherwise the idle furnaces that may still go on should keep the pig iron market from really soaring, though it is somewhat doubtful if it is looked for some sort of advance in any event."

COMMISSIONER WILL MAKE NO PROMISES TO ROAD SEEKERS

Somerset County Men Get No Encouragement in Talk With Commissioner

Somerset county road seekers and advocates who went to Johnstown to see Highway Commissioner Cunningham, who was in that city last Thursday as the guest of the Chamber of Commerce, returned home not much encouraged at the prospect.

Mr. Cunningham said he would make no promises owing to the limited amount of money at his disposal. Commenting upon the meeting, the Somerset Herald says: "The most significant statement made by Commissioner Cunningham was in regard to what some of the counties, especially Allegheny county, has done in constructing highways independent of state aid. He suggested that the time has arrived when the taxpayers of interior counties, such as Cambria and Somerset, should take up the road question with their county and with their county commissioners and township supervisors to the end that the roads not taken over by the state may be improved. Commissioner Cunningham said that he could do all in his power to aid the city of Johnstown to secure outlets to the Lincoln Highway and to the proposed William Penn Highway, that would be open to travel throughout all the months of the year, but he made no binding promise."

"From everything that Commissioner Cunningham said and in view of the action taken by neighboring counties on good roads matters it seems that the time is here when Somerset county should take up the road question as a purely business proposition and without waiting for the state to build our roads. The road laws that apply in counties of equal population with Somerset must apply here and good roads advocates who have been waiting their time and money in importing the Highway Department for assistance will likely meet with better and more prompt returns if they appeal to the grand jury and the court for relief."

"Nowhere in Pennsylvania have township supervisors made a better showing than in Somerset county. Their work they have accomplished in rounding up the dirt roads in the past two or three years has been remarkable. Better roads than Somerset county has throughout the year are hard to find, but Somerset county requires roads that will be safe for travel every month in the year, and it looks as if the court and grand jury is the only place to get them. If what Commissioner Cunningham says about the financial condition of his department is true, and there is no reason to doubt that it is."

APPLY EARLY

Highway Commissioner Urges Automobile License Applicants.

Applications for 1916 licenses are coming into the State Highway department in great numbers but State Highway Commissioner Cunningham today issued a statement in which he again called upon owners and operators of automobiles to get their applications for license tags in at an early date, so that the department could get the owners operating live or more cars to hurry their applications along. Prompt action by these owners will do away with much of the congestion which has arisen in previous years in the Automobile Division of the State Highway Department.

Another class of owners to whom the commissioner particularly addressed his appeal are those operating jitneys. The enormous increase in automobile traffic in congested centers the last year is due largely to the operation of jitneys, causing the state highway commissioner to lay great stress on this in the statement issued. While the statement is so worded as not to express threats of what will be done to those who fail to make their applications in time, yet, the commissioner made it plain that a rigid enforcement of the provisions of the Automobile Act would be undertaken and that those who neglect to apply for licenses need expect no leniency.

Others Structural Steel. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company has placed an order with the Pittsburgh Bridge & Iron Works for approximately 300 tons of structural steel for its machine, boiler and other shops at the coke plant.

Will Increase Capacity. The Weirton Steel Company will increase the capacity of its trip steel mill at an early date.

40,000 POST CARDS A MONTH USED BY 3 LOCAL CONCERNS

West Penn. Gas and Water Companies Purchase Many of Them.

BIG POSTAL REVENUE SOURCE

Statements Sent Out Monthly by Public Service Concerns Require Large Quantities of Cards; Dues May Not Be Sent Under Ruling of Uncle Sam.

Close to 40,000 postal cards are purchased at the Conneltsville postoffice monthly by three of the public service companies doing business in this section. This number has greatly increased recently, and at that it does not include several thousand more purchased by smaller concerns and for domestic use. The figures form a basis upon which to calculate the number of these one-cent mail pieces that are sent much and forth over various parts of the United States in a year.

There are thousands of places like Conneltsville where postal cards are utilized by public service companies for sending out monthly statements. Thought of the millions of cards used monthly renders the little thing big. The West Penn. Gas and Water Company sends out about 25,000 post cards a month at the local office. These are used up by the billing department in sending out statements to persons all along its system. The Fayette County Gas Company buys about 10,000 monthly and the Conneltsville Water Company about the same number. These sales alone add about $400 monthly to the revenue of the postoffice.

Post cards containing statements may be sent through the mails but they must contain only the current bill. If a balance due is included the card is held to be a bill and the postal department has ruled that dues may not be made on post cards. In this event the statement is included in a soiled envelope and sent by registered mail. The company one cent to send a statement and three cents to send a bill, the latter amount including the cost of the post card contained in the envelope.

In addition to these sales, post cards are utilized for advertising purposes by many concerns. Since the so-called post card came into popularity, postal clerks say, ordinary post cards are not used so much for personal messages. The convenient post card feature of the mails is a tremendous one of itself. It also contributes to the revenues of the postoffice, indirectly, because it is necessary to buy a one-cent stamp to mail each one.

NEED FOR LABOR

United States Government Is Endeavoring to Fill Vacant Jobs.

The approach of winter usually means lessened opportunity for labor to find profitable employment. Present season, however, is a noteworthy exception to this rule, for instead of decreasing, the demand for labor this fall, both skilled and unskilled, is constantly growing.

The United States Government Employment and Labor Distribution Branch, located at No. 135 South Second street, Philadelphia, has on file hundreds of opportunities for workmen in various lines, and comparatively few applicants to meet the demand.

Commissioner of Immigration E. E. Greenwalt, under whose supervision the federal employment bureau is located in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are operated, and who for the past thirty years has been closely identified with labor affairs, says that the employment he has never known a condition that could be compared with the present industrial activity. "The year 1915," he declared, "with all its frightful calamities, will nevertheless be down in history as marking an era of golden opportunity for labor in the United States of America."

The invaluable service rendered by the government employment bureau to both employers and those seeking work is absolutely free of charge. The following live opportunities are now on file in the office of the Commissioner of Immigration, Philadelphia. Persons desiring to make application for any of these positions can obtain full particulars concerning same by applying either in person or by mail to the United States Labor Distribution Branch, at either No. 135 South Second street, Philadelphia, or Berkley Building, Pittsburgh.

Unskilled number of first-class machinists, tool makers, etc., good pay, for various sections of Pennsylvania. Laborers for foundries, stone quarries, sewer work, railroad workers, furnaces, cement workers, painters, etc.

First-class sheet metal workers for Philadelphia. Miners, mine laborers, machine runners, etc., for coal mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Unskilled number of machinists, helpers, carpenters, etc., for Western Pennsylvania.

Farm hands for Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and West Virginia. Have a large number of calls from different sections for domestic at good pay.

New Metal Mixer. The 1,000-ton metal mixer being installed at the New Castle plant of the Carnegie Steel Company will be completed January 1.

CONTINUATION SCHOOLS WILL OPEN IN STATE JANUARY 1

Governor Brumbaugh Believes Most of the Employed Children Will Be Afforded Education.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 19.—Governor Brumbaugh today issued the following statement regarding the establishment of continuation schools throughout Pennsylvania under the Child Labor Act which becomes effective January 1.

"Attention made to me by the State Departments of Public Instruction and Labor and Industry, which are co-operating to obtain the establishment of continuation schools, indicate that at least three-quarters of the children now working in this state will be provided with continuation school facilities next January when the new Child Labor Act goes into effect."

"In every industrial community in this state active steps are being taken to establish continuation classes. Every boy or girl under sixteen years of age, employed after January 1st, must attend one of these classes at least eight hours a week."

"I am especially pleased with the attitude which employers of children generally have assumed. I am informed that wherever the school men have gone to places of business personally and talked with employers, explaining to them the reasons which would operate both to them and to their young employees under this Child Labor Law, that they have expressed a willingness to meet all its provisions. In fact, some firms which had expressed themselves as opposed to the new law, have agreed to furnish space in their establishments for conducting continuation classes, and a few have even agreed to pay the teachers."

"I am particularly pleased with the manner in which the situation has been handled in Philadelphia. The agents of the Departments of Public Instruction and Labor and Industry will visit before January 1st, every community in which it is necessary to establish continuation classes, and I am sure the new law will be ready and full compliance with all the provisions of the new law."

"The fact that schools may be conducted eight hours on one day, or four hours on two days, or two hours on four days, and that almost any seventh and eighth grade teacher will be able to give the instruction required, has done much to facilitate the establishment of these schools. "I am indeed grateful for the splendid spirit of co-operation which has been shown both by the school men and employers of children in this state in taking the standard of citizenship in our glorious Commonwealth."

SNOW A MENACE

It Is Affecting Troop Movement in the Trent Campaign.

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 19.—In the semi-circle from Trent to Trieste where Austro-Germans and Italians are fighting for supremacy, military operations will be seriously affected by snow. Neither side dares to advance large guns which may be lost in a night owing to heavy snowfall.

On the Austro-German front where fighting is taking place at ten thousand feet above sea level over several miles of mountains where every little pass means a small battle, weather conditions and snow are important factors. On these mountains ordinary road conditions, however, are practically useless as they cannot stand the climate and only Alpine troops on both sides are being utilized.

Since the beginning of October several feet of snow has fallen in the Swiss Tyrol and Italian Alps above 2,000 feet and there is besides always the danger of an avalanche. Under these conditions Alpine warfare will be impossible even for a strong force. The men of mountain artillery are practically bottled in deep snow in the higher Alps and the attack must be postponed until spring. Thus Italy feels secure from an invasion from the north and Venetia during the winter and can employ her reserve forces for other spheres.

On the Isonzo, however, it is another matter for the Austro-Germans. The plain and there is little doubt that the Italian army will attempt to force its way to Trieste and Piuma via Tolmino and Gorizia this winter. Daily the attack on snow are becoming fiercer. The Italians continue to bring up more heavy artillery which now is in a semi-circle around both cities.

AFTER ARGENTINE TRADE

American Flour Is Offered at Prices Under the Native Product.

By Associated Press.

BUEENOS AIRES, Nov. 19.—The fact that the agent of an American company recently offered American flour for sale on the Bobs, or local stock exchange, at a price lower than that at which Argentine flour is quoted, has evoked much comment in business circles. It is argued that there must be something wrong with the milling business either here or in the United States if Argentine flour, a country several thousand miles away, can be profitably sold here in the center of a great wheat-producing country.

It is said that an investigation may be ordered with a view to discovering the phenomenon which underlies the sale of American flour at a lower price than the Argentine product. The Argentine industry in Argentina is known to be heavily handicapped by tariffs, but even in the face of these it is a surprise that the Argentine mills can be the victims of successful competition from the United States.

THIS IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE, SAYS JOHN H. PATTERSON

Head of the National Cash
Register Company Backs
Up His Words.

$200,000 FOR PUBLICITY

Keynote is sounded at the Convention of Salesmen Which is Held at Dayton; Storekeepers Have a Golden Opportunity to Get Trade.

Special to This Courier.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 18.—The convention of salesmen of the National Cash Register Company, gathered here from all parts of this continent, reports were made indicating the general improvement of business everywhere. Out of the eight hundred salesmen present, all but one said that this territory was moving fast toward a business boom.

On the basis of these reports, John H. Patterson, president and general manager of the Cash Register Company, predicted that the approaching era of prosperity would probably exceed anything this country has ever known.

As a proof in his remarks, he reviewed the business depression of the previous two years. This, he said, had affected all lines—agriculture, mining, industry, commerce and finance.

"Now," he continued, "the boom is on. Agricultural interests are the first to feel it. The farmers have record-breaking crops with a big demand. Confidence has been re-established. Various industries have picked up, one after another. Then the stores needed goods, and factory wheels began to move. Then commerce and transportation reflected the change. Finally it was manifest in the financial world. We have plenty of money and the best banking system in the world today.

"We have three big federal organizations taking care of these various interests. First, the Interstate Commerce Commission, then came the Federal Trade Commission, and finally the Federal Reserve Board, with its chain of reserve banks. The sale of these three boards or commissions to the country cannot be estimated.

"Through the aid of the reserve banks, the various banking institutions of the country began to convince money where people could not get it before. Now with big crops and big demand, with little foreign competition, we are at the commencement of an era of prosperity such as this country has never seen before.

"All this great prosperity cannot come in a day. It will take time. But conditions everywhere are improving.
The farmers are prosperous. The mills fore. National stocks are going up. It is only a question of a short time be-

WAR ON RATS DECLARED BY OFFICIALS OF STATE

New Secretary of Agriculture Estimates They Cause $5,000,000
Loss Annually.

War formally has been declared on the rat and its brethren by Charles B.
Patton, the new secretary of agriculture. He and Dr. H. A. Surface, the state economic zoologist, figure that the loss caused in Pennsylvania by these animals is $5,000,000 annually, at the most conservative figure.

The department figures that the annual loss by rats and similar animals is at the very least $10 for each of the 225,000 farms in the state, and that this would be nearly doubled by the loss in cities. The meadow mouse, or vole, probably does at least $10,000 damage annually per county, or $670,000 more each year.

Rules suggested for the rat war follow:
Destroy old buildings, which give protection to such pests, and which themselves are unsightly and will be better destroyed than left standing.

The lumber and wood on supports, so that rats and mice will not find effective concealment, and dogs and cats can get under to find the pests.

Close holes in buildings and walls.
Make a mixture of cement and sand with little pounded glass, and put it into the holes through which rats and mice would otherwise pass.

Make special efforts to render cities, granaries and news proof against rats and mice. This can be done by the use of galvanized wire netting, tin, zinc, etc.

Use poisons, such as borium carbonate, and even the arsenates, mixed with food for the rodents.

Use caustic such as powdered caustic soda or caustic potash, scattered where rats and mice run. This burns their feet and drives them away.

Use traps at every opportunity.
Make use of ferrets in driving out rats, so that they can be killed.

Preserve the natural enemies of rodents, among which are black-snakes, house snakes, the screech owl and other native owls, hawks, weasels, etc.

Make use of cats, and train them to be born cats rather than house cats. Feed them so that they will not starve, and run wild and kill birds, but do not feed them so much that they will not hunt rodents.

Keep terriers and train them in the business of destroying rats and mice.
With little effort they can be taught their duty, and will be busy during the day, while cats are busy at night.

Organize clubs that may enter into competitive contests, offer prizes and otherwise devise means for the extermination of rats and mice.

LACK OF A HALL DISCOURAGES THE BASKETBALL FANS

Small Chances That Team
Will Be Organized to Play Neighboring Towns.

TWO FLOORS ARE AVAILABLE

Proper Efforts Might Result in Obtaining Either the West Side Hall or Old Basketball Building, but Interest in the Game Has Waned.

Although several amateur teams have upheld basketball in Connellsville since the Central League broke up three years ago, it is not likely that this city will be represented at all this year. The main reason why Connellsville boys cannot organize basketball this year is cause there is no available hall to play in.

Two years ago the West Side had a basketball team that used the Slavish Hall, but disagreement arose with the directors over the rent and since then the hall has not been used for games although the baskets are still up.

The old hall was used the same year by an independent team, which played an exhibition game, after which there was roller skating. The next season the hall was idle and last year it was rented for boxing shows. The ring erected in the middle of the floor eliminated all possibilities of playing basketball.

Thus left the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A., the only available hall to be used. Although the floor was much under size, two teams were formed, one in the junior classes and one in the men's classes. These teams kept Connellsville in the basketball map last year but now that the Macedonians have taken over the building there is little chance of having a team this year, unless the floor can be rented. Even in that case, however, the games would not be of the snappy quality the fans like as there would be no chance for the team to practice.

Uniontown and Scottsdale both have basketball teams each year and Connellsville is always on the schedule of these teams. A game at home and away from home with each team is usually the method of arranging games but although Connellsville might form a pickup quintet and play a bang-up game away from home the other teams could not be brought here. Even Lefebvre has a fast quintet and that little bunch of cats play in a long narrow room, with a low ceiling. Yet they get the floor and gymnasium shooting practice and are able to play good games when they do get in regulation steps.

If either the Slavish Hall, in which but a few dances are held, or the basketball hall that is entirely idle, could be secured at a cheap rent a few teams might be organized and enough money paid in membership fees to cover the rent. The teams could play among themselves for the practice and bring out to town from here on different nights. For a season or two teams could be arranged so that there would be no mixup in the dates.

BRITON MUST FIGHT

Is Conscripted for Service in the German Army.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 18.—The English newspapers are aroused over the case of Dr. W. H. Wells, a former lecturer in the University of Munich, who has been conscripted for service in the German army. Dr. Wells is a graduate of Oxford and an Englishman by birth, but it appears that under the German law he accepted "communications" German citizenship when he accepted in 1909 a pension from the University of Munich. He is 33 years old.

English friends of Dr. Wells describe him as a thoughtful, brilliant, sympathetic and feeling. It is stated that German conscription officials informed him in 1909 that his acceptance of the pension would make no difference to his status as a British citizen. When the war broke out he planned to return to England but was dissuaded by colleagues into remaining at his post.

RAILROADERS MAY STRIKE

Brotherhood Men Will Demand Eight Hour Day March 1.

By Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—The four railroad brotherhoods, including more than 350,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and all hands on all railroads in the United States, are preparing to make formal demands about March 1 that the railroads grant them an eight hour day to the same pay they now get for 10 hours.

Action will be taken at the meeting of the executive committee of the brotherhoods in Chicago, December 15 when ballots for a referendum will be prepared.

BIG GAME TOMORROW.

South Side Will Clash With Formidable North End Team.

The South Side Pros under the coaching of "Pat" Hicks are prepared for the game with North End tomorrow afternoon at Fayette Field at 4 o'clock. This game was scheduled for last Friday but on account of bad weather it was called off.

Since then both teams have been getting into trim and a hard game is assured. Coach Hicks in a statement says: "For 15 years the two sections of town have been bitter rivals, and for this reason the coach has selected his strongest team to face the rivals.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD

APPLIED AS A COLD CREAM
ACTS AS A MEDICINE.

Wherever applied, its healing and nourishment is instantly absorbed by the pores. It strengthens and builds up the tissues underlying the skin and firm, healthy flesh is the result.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is a new experiment. It has been in use for more than fifty years and during that time thousands of women and men have used it with entire satisfaction.

That it is not to be classed with "Cold Creams" and other things of like superficial potency is proved by the fact that it is prescribed by leading physicians and used in hospitals for the nutrition of invalids whose stomachs are too weak to digest food.

DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD should be used by every woman who has the least desire to be attractive. It is the only preparation that will round out hollowed, thin cheeks or scrawny neck with firm, healthy flesh and remove wrinkles from the face and hands, no matter how deep the furrows.

FOR DEVELOPING THE IMMATURE BUST or to make the breast firm, large and beautiful nothing can equal it. To prevent the breasts from shrinking, after weaning baby, mothers should always use DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD. It will also restore a bosom to its natural contour and beauty lost through nursing and sickness.

ON SALE AT ALL DRUGGISTS:
SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD is $1.00 a box, but to introduce it into thousands of new homes we have decided to send Two (2) boxes to all who answer this advertisement and send us $1.00. All packages are sent in plain wrapper, postage prepaid.

FREE. A Sample Box—just enough to convince you of the great merit of DR. CHARLES FLESH FOOD—will be sent free for 10 cents, which pays for cost of mailing. With this sample we will also send you our illustrated Book, "Art of Massage," which contains all the proper movements for massaging the face, neck and arms and full directions for developing the bust. Address
